

Brazilian foods

- ▶ 1) Feijoada is a stew of beans with beef and pork. The name feijoada comes from feijão, 'bean' in Portuguese. It is widely prepared in the Portuguese-speaking world, with slight variations. The basic ingredients of feijoada are beans and fresh pork or beef. In Brazil, it is usually made with black beans.

Brazilian foods

- ▶ 2) Farofa is a traditional Brazilian side dish made with toasted yuca flour/cassava flour, or how we call it in Portuguese farinha de mandioca. This dish is mainly eaten in Brazil or by the Brazilian diaspora and it's normally available in Brazilian restaurants all over the world.
- ▶ 3) Moqueca is a Brazilian seafood stew. Moqueca is typically made with shrimp or fish as a base with tomatoes, onions, garlic, lime and coriander. The name moqueca comes from the term mu'keka in Kimbundu language. Picture of the Brazilian food Feijoada below.

Brazilian sport stars

- Ronaldinho is a Brazilian football legend who has been said to be the best footballer in the world when he was at the height of his footballing career. Picture below shows Ronaldinho with the ballon d'or, one of the most famous sports award in the world.

Picture above shows female Brazilian footballer Marta. Who is one of the best, if not, the best women's footballer in the world.

Brasilia, the capital of Brazil

- Brasilia is the current capital of Brazil with a population of 4,804,000 and it took around 3 years for some of the main buildings to be built. The picture to the right is Brazil's capital city Brasilia.

Rio de Janeiro

- ▶ The statue to the right is Rio de Janeiro's sculpture of Jesus Christ. It is one of the tallest statues/sculptures in the world. Picture below shows Rio de Janeiro, which used to be Brazil's capital city.

